These money managers are there because they are promised to make more than 25% return on investments in areas of the world where there exists incredible food insecurity. As more and more of these lands are being snagged up, millions of small indigenous farmers are being forcibly removed from their ancestral lands - by corrupt dictators with no moral qualms about resorting to violence.

Please join in solidarity with food justice activists, Environmental ORGs, OWS groups, African students and communities in exposing these cabal of evil doers .Their “next big thing in finance” is nothing more than the next financial bubble with far more ill-consequences for humanity and the planet.
